

INTERIOR DESIGN WORKSHOP
At the Paris American Academy
Paris, France
July 2-28, 2011

I INTERIOR DESIGN

This course presents a practical and “hands-on” approach to the interior design profession. Lectures with slide, video and Power Point presentations are enhanced with visits to Parisian architecture, historical and contemporary sites, furniture, and fabric stores. The course also introduces the student to space planning, furnishings, color development, and materials selection. Individual or special interest designs presented in interior design studio problems and solutions.

Method: lectures, visits, practical workshop classes with intensive, individual attention. Personal and group critiques.

I DESIGN TECHNIQUES

This course is to teach students to personalize their own methodology by experiencing different techniques of visualization and 3D models. This compact course deals with representational techniques including technical drawing, one-and two-point perspectives, rendering the elements of interior spaces, as a tool for the graphic representation of interior spaces. Through the Product Design students utilize presentation techniques with maquettes/scale models. A good designer should not only have new ideas but also be able to represent them in the most appropriate way.

Method: Lectures, slides, practical examples and classes with individual attention to students projects.
